
United Nations agencies report steady progress in saving mothers' lives

Langue Undefined

New data from WHO, UNICEF, UNFPA and UNPD and the World Bank Group show a 45% reduction in maternal deaths since 1990. More than 1 in 4 maternal deaths are caused by pre-existing medical conditions, including diabetes, obesity, malaria and HIV. Integrated care for women with conditions such as diabetes and obesity will reduce deaths and prevent long-lasting health problems.

More information [1]

Post Date: Tuesday, 6 mai, 2014

Source URL: <https://ncdalliance.org/fr/news-events/news/united-nations-agencies-report-steady-progress-in-saving-mothers%E2%80%99-lives>

Liens

[1] <http://www.worldbank.org/en/news/press-release/2014/05/06/united-nations-agencies-report-steady-progress-saving-mothers-lives>